

Walker named gaming commission director

BY TRACI BONNEY
Royal P. Walker Jr. is a very popular man among Hancock County gaming proponents at the moment.
Walker was named executive director of the Mississippi Gaming Commission Wednesday, according to a press release from the State Tax Commission.

Walker currently serves as division director, Division of Budget and Policy Development, Mississippi Department of Finance and Administration.

The release states: "In his capacity as division director for the Division of Budget and Policy Development for the Department of Finance and Administration, he headed the research effort on gaming activity for the current administration which was utilized by the Mississippi Legislature in drafting the current gaming laws. He is very familiar with those laws and the problems that the Gaming Commission will face in the immediate future."

His appointment as executive director is effective June 1.
Bay St. Louis Mayor Edward Favre said, "I think it's great. I don't know the gentleman, don't know anything about the gentleman, but he must be top-notch. I understand the commission had a load of applicants to choose from, and they selected him; so they must think he's the best one for the job."

"Hopefully this will put the

For the second time in as many months, an automobile skidded off the Waveland-Kilm Cutoff Road after heavy rains. The accidents, which have occurred at night in the same place, are apparently the result of cars hydroplaning after hitting a low, flooded spot on the pavement. The location, in the south-bound lane, is roughly one half mile from Hwy. 90 and is unlighted. Waveland Police Chief Donald Dorn reminds motorists the speed limit is 35 mph on the road, but caution should be used in inclement weather. (Photo by T. H. (Doc) Toups)

Baxter: Mississippi needs strict controls for casinos

BY TRACI BONNEY
Rigid state controls will be needed for dockside gambling casinos to operate successfully in Mississippi, according to George Baxter of Bayou Caddy Inc.
In an interview Monday, Baxter discussed several Nevada gaming laws and regulations, and stressed the need for Mississippi to have stringent regulations as well.

Baxter began by explaining that any casino operator who wants to stay in business is not going to cheat his customers or allow any dealer or game operator to do so. "The owner could lose his license if he or his employees are found to be cheating, so it's important to him to run an honest casino," Baxter stated.

Group organizes to oppose gambling ships in city limits

Citing a growing concern over the large number of proposed dockside casino developments along the beachfront, the Friends of Bay St. Louis will hold an organizational meeting at 7:30 p.m. on Thursday, June 6, in the Mississippi Power Company Auditorium on Hwy. 90.

The objective of the organization is not to oppose gambling, but to oppose the location of Citizens' group seeks help from Sierra Club to defray cost of suit

BY JACQUI COCHRAN

The Louisiana environmental group, Save Our Wetlands Inc. (SOWL) efforts may soon be doubled in strength should the Sierra Club Legal Defense Fund join with Citizens for a Healthy Environment in a separate suit aimed to stop the 1994 test firing of the Advanced Solid Rocket Motors (ASRM) at Stennis Space Center.

Citizens for a Healthy Environment attorney, Dan Snelling of New Orleans, stated Wednesday that he expects an answer within weeks as to whether the public interest law firm will accept the case for the Hancock County group.

Public opposition to ASRM testing stems from concerns over the 350 tons of toxic pollutants contained in the exhaust plume, which is supposed to rise into the higher atmosphere where it is expected to disperse, eventually falling to earth in unharmed amounts to flora and fauna.

Should the plume contact water during its instantaneous rise, it could prove hazardous to the surrounding area, according to the opponents.

Snelling sent a 60-day intent to sue notice on behalf of the local citizens group on April 26 to the offices of the National Aeronautics and Space Administration (NASA) and other federal and state agencies involved in the permitting of the of the proposed ASRM testing.

Since then, he has been soliciting aid from the Sierra Club Legal Defense Fund in order to obtain additional resources.

Snelling explained that should the Legal Defense Fund join in the case it will benefit their cause financially as well as through additional manpower.

"In order to take on NASA, you need resources," Snelling said.

Snelling expects an answer from the public interest law firm within weeks.

SOWL filed suit against NASA and the United States Corps of Engineers Tuesday in Biloxi's federal court for procedural violations by the two federal agencies.

Luke Fontana, executive attorney and founder of SOWL, claims the State of Louisiana was not notified of the project nor were permits obtained from Louisiana, which because of proximity, is entitled to some voice in the project, he said.

Fontana also reported that as early as November 20, 1990 an intent to sue notice was sent to NASA along with a request that SOWL be kept abreast of the ASRM project progress.

He said SOWL was unaware that NASA had received permits enabling them to proceed with the project until after February.

Though NASA has no legal obligation to notify SOWL, Fontana stated that he felt it was an indication of bad faith on NASA's part.

Fontana added that the group has documentation from the Environmental Protection

Bay child killed in La. collision

Three-year-old James Moss of Bay St. Louis was killed Sunday on Interstate 10 in Metairie when he was thrown 100 feet through the shattered hatchback window of his mother's car following a collision.

According to Louisiana State Police trooper Al Majeau, Lisa Moss, 24, stated that she had strapped James and his 18-month old brother into the back seat upon leaving Bay St. Louis for the ride to visit her parents in Kenner.

Majeau was reported as saying, "It is possible that the child unbuckled himself during the non-stop trip."

The accident was reported to have occurred at 10:45 a.m., west of the Veterans Memorial Boulevard overpass, when Moss traveling in the center lane, hit her brakes upon reaching a line of rain showers.

According to a witness, the 1982 Camaro "hydroplaned," causing the vehicle to slide and spin until it came to a stop across the right and center lanes.

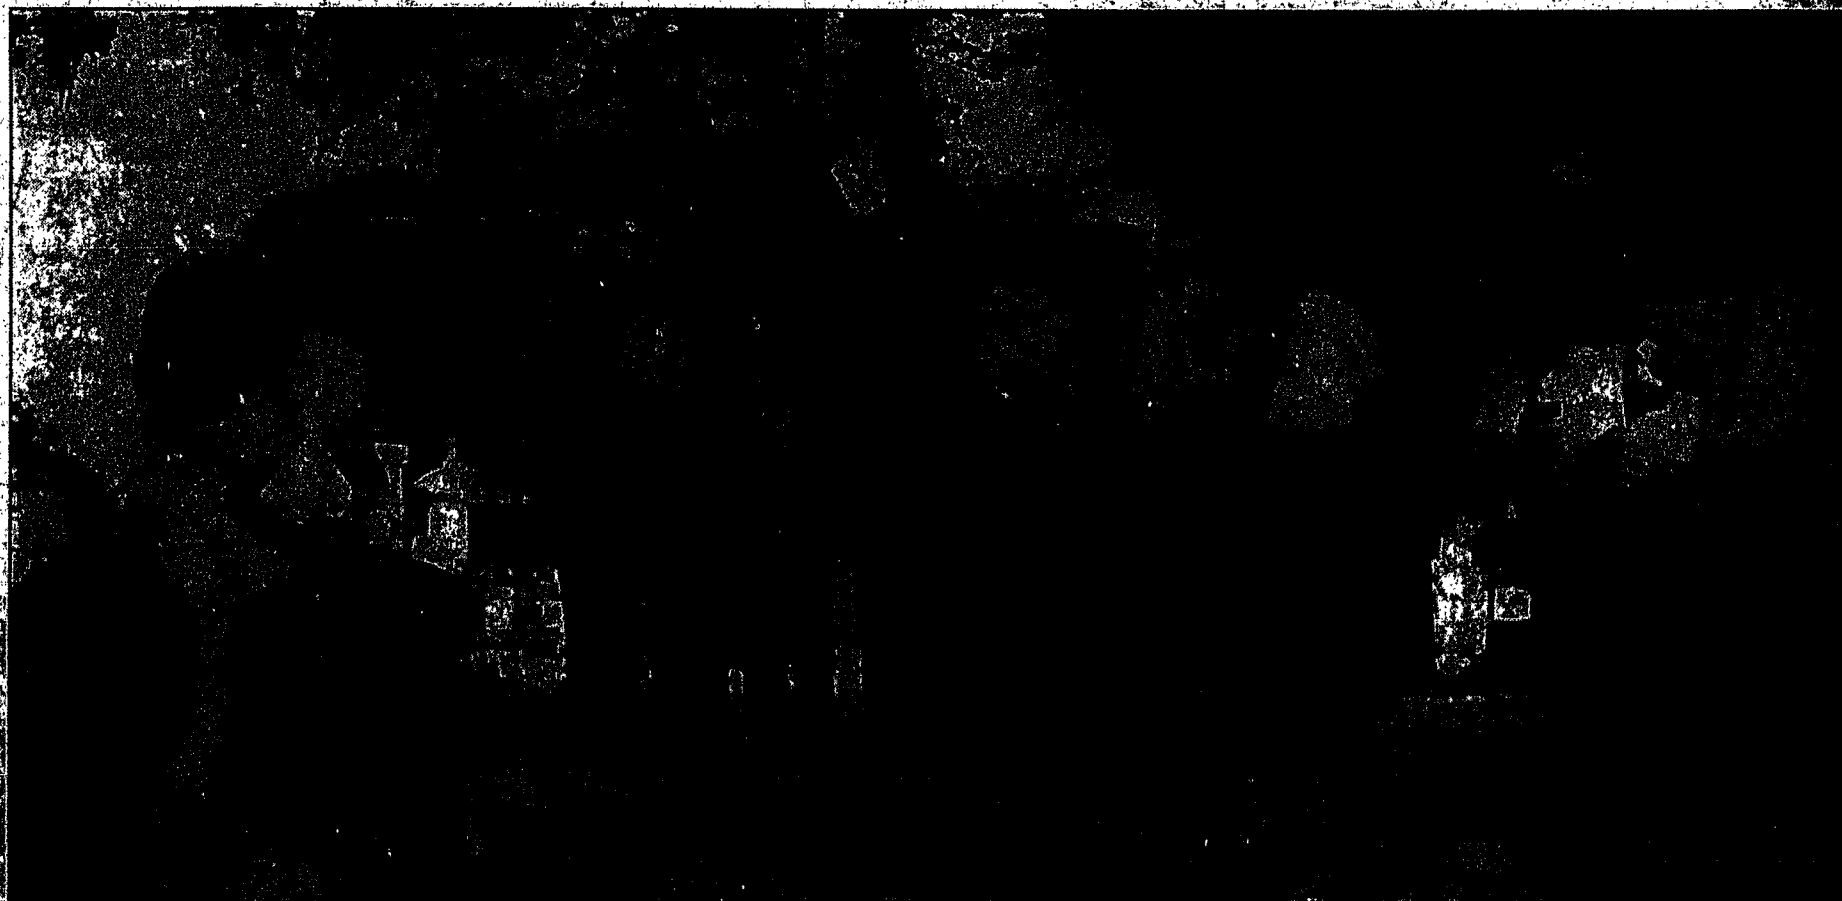

Within seconds, Ezera Raymond of Kenner, driving a pickup truck, hit the left rear of Moss' car. The impact was said to spin the car while shattering the hatchback window and propelling the child 100 feet onto an interstate lane.

James was rushed to East Jefferson General Hospital where he was diagnosed with a crushed cranium among other injuries. He was pronounced dead at 6:03 p.m.

Remembering

Throughout the nation, ceremonies were held to honor those men and women who have lost their lives in the service of their country. Locally, members of Waveland's Bourgeois-Sieffert-Ray Post 77 attend a wreath placing ceremony following a memorial address given by retired Brigadier General Wallace E. Farragut. Farragut reminded the Waveland audience to "never forget, that freedom is not free," as he listed the estimated loss of American service men: World War I, 116,000; World War II, 405,000; Korea, 64,000; and Vietnam, 56,000. "For those that have fallen," he added, "we hear the echo of their voices today." In Bay St. Louis, members of the Clement R. Bontemps American Legion Post 139 present arms as Michelle Ellis, Miss Poppy, places a wreath at the grave of the World War I namesake. Following the graveside ceremony, Post 139 held "Post Everlasting Services" for 16 members who died this past year. (Echo staff photo by Jacqui Cochran)

AGGRAVATED ASSAULT

Hancock Sheriff Investigator Delbert Seay reported Tuesday the Friday arrest of a Bay St. Louis man on an aggravated assault charge.

Seay said Donald R. Marroy, 28, of 1112 Rue de la Salle, Waveland, was shot around 8:30 p.m. while putting a tattoo on another man in a trailer at Shoreline Park.

According to the sheriff department report, Russell S. Rich, 55, of Rt. 6 Box 125, Bay St. Louis, was arrested after reportedly shooting Marroy in the face with a .38 caliber pistol. Marroy was transported to Hancock Medical Center and placed in the Intensive Care Unit. He has since been released.

Rich was released from the Hancock County jail under a $5,000 bond. Seay added.

Waveland, Mississippi Notice of Public Hearing

Notice is hereby given of a Public Hearing to be held by the City of Waveland, Mississippi. The hearing will be held on July 2, 1991 at 6:30 p.m. in the new Waveland City Hall Board Room. This hearing is being held to receive public comments on the Facilities Plan, which is currently being prepared and will be submitted to the City on June 4, 1991 at their regular Board Meeting.

This Facilities Plan addresses several project areas within the city limits that do not presently contain sewer facilities. A Phase I area will be depicted in the overall Facilities Plan and the remaining project areas will be accomplished by the city over a period of time as economically feasible.

Copies of this Facilities Plan will be on display at the Waveland City Library and City Hall around June 11, 1991. The public is urged to review the report and to provide comments at the Public Hearing so its use can be considered in the adoption and implementation of the proposed Phase I project area.

The city will make a presentation to begin the meeting followed by a question and answer period.

KILLING TIME

By Traci Bonney

AUTHOR'S NOTE: A few hours after I wrote this, the rain returned. (Hey, don't blame the weather on my column; I assure you there's no connection. My writing isn't that bad.)

No, I didn't drown sometime in the last two weeks, in case you're wondering.

Then where was your column, Traci?

Good question. I wrote something two weeks ago, but it really wasn't worth printing. Besides, we had much more interesting items to relate to y'all.

But on to my topic for the week. As I write this, it's Memorial Day, and people are seeing some odd things in Hancock County.

Sunshine is one of those things. Yes, there are several clouds in the sky, but so far they haven't tried to spit on us. I'm hoping that condition remains at least long enough for us to dry out a little and for the farmers to get something planted (if it isn't too late).

As I was driving to work today, I noticed green stuff on some of the streets. Since I was using the vent instead of the air conditioner, I also smelled something unusual: cut grass. I did see people operating lawn mowers, but for whatever reason that image didn't register in my brain. However, seeing a neatly manicured lawn at the county courthouse and grass cuttings on Gex Street somehow brought home to me the fact that people were actually able to clear away some of the jungle caused by recent rains. Isn't it great to know the only shower you'll end up in is the one in your bathroom? And I guess some of you masochists out there even think it's great to be able to cut your grass again. I'm just glad I don't have grass to cut.

And I know some of you are glad you can put away the pirogues and crank up your cars again. It had to be a royal pain to have two feet of water in your yards.

However, don't stash the umbrellas yet. The Sun-Herald's weather page shows a chance of afternoon thunderstorms every day this week. I know the five-day forecast can change from day to day, but still...

Has anyone seen my scuba gear?

AGGRAVATED ASSAULT

Hancock County Metro Narcotics Task Force director Glenn Strong reported Wednesday the arrest of a McNeill man and others as a result of a reported barroom brawl.

Strong said that at about 4:30 a.m. Wednesday, the sheriff's department received a call about a brawl at Mama's Place Lounge, Hwy. 43, Hancock County. Deputies Willie Lee and Alan James responded.

According to the report, a number of people were involved and pool cues were being employed in the fight.

John L. Stockstill, 38, of P.O. Box 192, McNeill, was arrested and charged with aggravated assault. Strong said he was released from the Hancock County jail on a $5,000 bond.

Strong, who is in charge of the investigation, said others were arrested on miscellaneous misdemeanor charges, and more arrests are expected as the investigation continues.

POSSESSION OF STOLEN PROPERTY

According to Hancock County Metro Narcotics Task Force director Glenn Strong, a Metairie, La., man and two Bay St. Louis men were arrested Tuesday around 6 p.m. on charges connected with the operation of a chop shop.

Strong said Dean L. Drewes, 36, of 403 North Turnbull Drive, Metairie, La.; Alan J. Thomassie, 37, and Richard A. Sorcie, 35, both of 5077 Utah Street, Shoreline Park, were arrested immediately after the execution of a search warrant at 5077 Utah Street for possession of stolen vehicles.

"Apparently these three were running a chop shop," Strong stated. "It appears that a number of vehicles had been run through the place where they had chopped them up, and from what could be told, they were all new vehicles. They ranged from Ford pickups to Oldsmobile Regencies and others."

Strong said narcotics were also found.

All three men are currently in the Hancock County jail on $20,000 bonds. Strong said Drewes and Sorcie were charged with possession of stolen property, while Thomassie was charged with possession of stolen property and possession of a controlled substance.

Strong said other chop shop paraphernalia was confiscated, including $6,000 worth of tools—socket wrenches, power tools and blow torches, among other items.

Investigator Delbert Seay is in charge of the investigation. Assisting him are Strong, Investigators Nathan Hoda, Matt Karl, and Bill Pepperman, and Deputies Nathan "Corky" Hoda and George Burleson.

Strong said the investigation is ongoing and more arrests are expected.

BURGLARY AND GRAND LARCENY

Detective Gus Aime of Bay St. Louis reported that Michael Donovan Griffith, 19, of Bay St. Louis was arrested on Tuesday at 3:35 p.m. and charged with grand larceny, which is theft over $100.

Upon further investigation following the arrest Griffith was charged with the burglary of a dwelling where gold jewelry was stolen.

Aime said a $1,000 bond was placed on Griffith for the grand larceny charge, and a $5,000 bond was added on the burglary.

Griffith remains in Hancock County Justice Facility at the time of this report.

POSSESSION OF A CONTROLLED SUBSTANCE

Detective Gus Aime of the Bay St. Louis Police Department reported the arrest of a juvenile on Tuesday at 4:22 p.m. along Hwy. 90 in Bay St. Louis for possession of a controlled substance. That substance was two rocks of crack cocaine, Aime said. He added that the juvenile was turned over to the youth court.

"QUOTABLE QUOTES"

By Ellis C. Cuevas

Residents are paying more attention to the weather these days since we have had some dramatic changes, especially in the amount of rainfall.

Along those lines, the number of thunderstorms have also made many of us weary of the possibility of tornadoes.

Today at 7 a.m. at the Hancock County Barn on Highway 43, Kiln, and also at 11 a.m. at the Civic Center on Longfellow Road, the Civil Defense is sponsoring a tornado spotting and preparation program.

The classes are to be taught by the director of the Mobile Regional Headquarters of the National Weather Service.

This sounds like an interesting program, as both will be the same, just at different locations and are free to the public.

Instructions will be given on the recognition of the various cloud formations which indicate the approach of a tornado and what to do for protection.

I am hoping there will be a large turnout at both locations.

Various gifts are made to the Hancock County Public Library System from time to time and all are really appreciated, according to Prima Wusnack, system director.

This past week, the family of the late Victor Buerkle Jr., donated an American flag to the library system.

Mr. Buerkle, a World War II veteran, was active in the American Legion and Veterans of Foreign Wars. His daughter, Mildred Buerkle, a resident of Diamondhead, felt the flag from his funeral would be a good gift to the community.

Citizens should be aware of the fact that there are many things, in addition to books, which can be used by our library system.

I feel that it was very good thought by the Buerkle family to remember our library system.

A couple professions I failed to mention that were being affected by the extra rainfall, namely folks in yard care, painting, also tourism-related operations, home construction and repairs and the timber industry.

So many people are affected by the everyday rains. Really everyone is affected one way or another.

I can never recall so many lawns in need of cutting in our area, and it is not because the owners have not tried.

Every day I think that maybe I will be able to cut my grass that evening—if we get no more rain.

It is hard to find a 24-hour period without rain in goodness knows how many weeks.

Impact Aid vital to school districts

The Administration is considering reducing federal Impact Aid by $7 million and eliminating aid entirely for students of parents who work but do not live on military bases. Impact Aid helps support school districts in communities where men and women in our armed forces are stationed.

Last week, I argued in a Labor, Health and Human Services subcommittee hearing that such cuts would be devastating to South Mississippi. The Fifth Congressional District includes several military bases. Impact aid is essential to many of the schools in the district.

Impact aid is needed because schools are funded primarily by local taxes. Portions of revenue from sales taxes, property taxes, and car tags provide the financial base for local school districts. While our military bases and their personnel contribute significantly to both our national security and our local economy, many military personnel do not pay Mississippi income taxes, nor do they have to register their cars in Mississippi or pay property taxes or sales taxes if they live on military bases and shop at the commissary.

Impact aid means that our local schools can provide an excellent education to military dependents without taxing the local citizens. In 1989, the local citizens of the 12th Congressional District received $125 million in impact aid. If that aid were cut, it would take a $250 million increase in local taxes to replace it.

During difficult economic times, taxpayers of Mississippi don't need another tax increase.

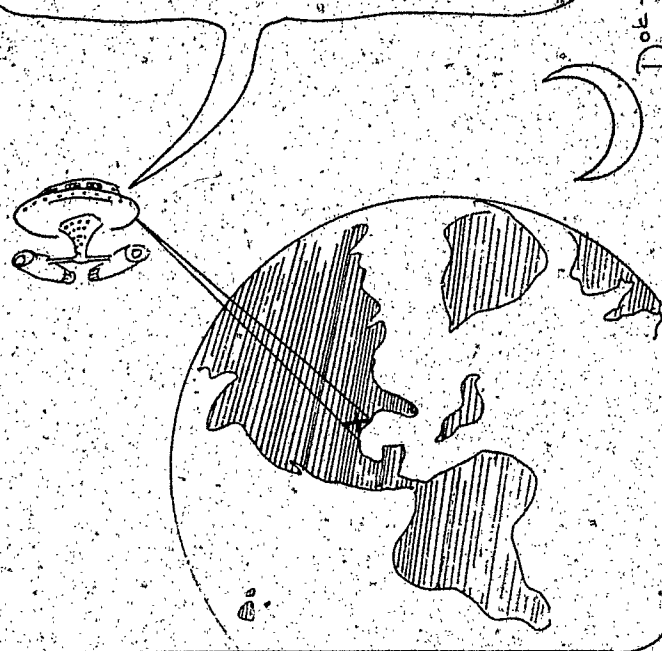

Impact aid is a deserved benefit for our military personnel and other federal employees. We owe it to our service personnel to provide for the education of their dependents. Many of these children are forced to move several times during their childhoods, and impact aid ensures that wherever they go in the United States the schools will be equipped to meet their educational needs.

The federally impacted school districts in South Mississippi are among the very best in the state. The 1991 Biloxi Senior Class achieved the highest composite ACT score in Mississippi. All of our federally impacted school districts send graduates to the top universities in the nation and to our service academies.

In fact, I have a very difficult time selecting academy nominations each year, because our schools are graduating so many outstanding students who wish to serve as officers in the armed forces.

The Departments of Education, Labor, and Health and Human Services each are being strained by the recession. They must make some difficult and painful spending decisions. Those decisions should not be at the expense of public education. I asked the subcommittee to approve the baseline increase in impact aid funding for fiscal year 1992.

Remember our military who earned our freedom

In just a few days, Mississippi will pay tribute to our men and women who have bravely given their lives in the pursuit of America's freedom.

It was 123 years ago that the first formal observance of Memorial Day took place at the request of General John Logan who asked that "flowers decorate the graves of those who died in defense of their country."

More than a century later, those sentiments have renewed significance. That is because of the recent events that have taken so many of our men and women in the Middle East.

As we welcome our troops home daily from Operation Desert Storm, we pause to think back to less than three months ago when our sons, daughters, fathers and mothers were thousands of miles away from us.

We thank God that our prayers have been answered—most of our friends and family members have returned home safely from America's most recent war.

But let us not forget those courageous Mississippians who will not be coming home. Let us remember those men and women from Mississippi and across the nation who gave their lives during Operation Desert Storm.

And, this Memorial Day, let us also remember those Mississippians who have lost their lives in other wars.

Let us honor those who have demonstrated unmatched bravery in Panama, Vietnam, Korea, Europe, Pearl Harbor, the Pacific Rim and on our own soil this Memorial Day.

As we pay tribute to those who have forwarded the cause of freedom with their lives, let us also, this Memorial Day, celebrate one of the most important ingredients of America.

That ingredient is the basis of our country. It is the envy of other nations. It is the inspiration of hundreds of millions of people throughout the world. And, recently, it has become a trend of those civilizations wishing to create a better standard for its people.

That ingredient is democracy.

As Mississippians, we have much to remember and celebrate this Memorial Day. We have served our country well, in times of peace and in times of war. For that, we can all be proud. Proud of our patriotism, proud of our dedication and proud of our handiwork in the creation of the product we call America.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Keep Pillsbury's production plants in America, not Mexico

Dear Editor:

Here's a chance for all you activists out there to do something positive.

The Pillsbury Company (Green Giant Div.) has long been a proud producer of fine American farm products. At least in our home they've meant great taste and quality in canned and frozen foods.

They've recently announced the closing of California plants which are being moved to Mexico. That is totally unacceptable, a blow to American farmers and packing house labor.

Consider also the "trickle down" effect on the packaging industry which affects loggers, paper and box workers, printers, ink companies, etc. This will also adversely affect the balance of trade deficit.

What if other food giants follow them to Mexico or Chile or another foreign country? The last great American industry—farming—will suffer the same fate as other dying U.S. manufacturing companies (auto, steel, electronic) whereby foreigners have replaced Americans in these jobs.

So, I suggest you write and complain to:

The Pillsbury Co., 2866 Pillsbury Center, Minneapolis, Minn. 55402

Tell them to resume these U.S. operations on all products or Pillsbury shall be boycotted. Don't know?

White collar crime unit charges sheriff with bribery

When Newton County Sheriff M. A. "Bud" Miles was arrested three weeks ago on bribery charges in connection with setting up a home-grown gambling operation in his county, the average Mississippian probably thought it was just another instance of the feds doing our dirty work for us.

Well, it wasn't. The arrest of the Newton sheriff was the latest of a growing number of crackdowns on corrupt Mississippi officials by the state's very own white collar crime unit.

Atty. Gen. Mike Moore got the Legislature to create in 1988. Although little publicized and financially starved by an unappreciative Mississippi Legislature, Moore's white collar crime unit has brought to the bar nearly a dozen public officials and organized crime figures in the past two years on corruption charges.

Miles, in fact, marks the third sheriff the past two years to be criminally charged as a result of investigations conducted by Moore's public integrity staff. Charges against Miles will be presented to the Newton County grand jury in August. The other two sheriffs have already been convicted and removed from office.

Almost a year ago, the AG's unit had begun developing a case against Miles after receiving information through State Alcohol Beverage Control agents that the Newton County sheriff was believed to be permitting gambling and illegal liquor sales in the county.

Moore's investigators succeeded in getting an informant equipped with a body microphone to gain the confidence of one I. C. "Hopcat" Nash, of Union, a convicted felon and nightclub operator alleged to be a sidekick of the sheriff.

Posing as a gambling operator wanting to do business in the county, the informant and Nash began discussing with the sheriff the possibility of putting in video poker machines. While investigators listened and informant's "wire" recorded it, Miles is alleged to have told them video poker was okay but that they could make $5,000 a week by running a craps table.

According to Moore, the sheriff is heard on the tapes instructing the informant and Nash how to run the dice game and also who to hire to help them run the game. He takes them to his house and shows them a rather crudely-made dice table with no legs which he says will only cost them $500.

One payment of $250 is made for the table, then another for $150 a week or so later, and the day when the next payment of $100 is promised, instead Moore's investigators and ABC agents arrive with a warrant for Miles' arrest on bribery charges. Nash is also arrested for bribery and ABC violations.

Last year, Moore's investigators nailed Sheriff Estus Earl Lott of Lamar County on extortion charges after he forced an oil field company to put him on its payroll as a nightwatchman as "protection." Again, using its sophisticated equipment, the AG's men and an employee of the company "wired" to record evidence on the sheriff's dealings.

Lott later pleaded guilty to extortion and resigned. Moore says the Lott case is particularly significant because a private citizen provided the initial tip. The oil field company, he said, "was initially afraid this was the way business was done in Mississippi."

The AG's agents also had a major role in developing the case against Yazoo County sheriff Curtis Ketcham who pleaded guilty in February to federal charges of obstruction of justice in connection with pocketing $700 seized in a drug arrest and trying to falsify records.

Moore said that the white collar crime unit has never been funded by the Legislature since its creation three years ago. "I've had to keep it alive with what money I can take from my general appropriation and what money we get back from the feds by sharing cases with them," he said.

The 1991 Legislature cut the AG's general appropriation $300,000 and, of course, put no money in his budget for the white collar crime unit.

"We could do so much more with our white collar crime unit if we had a little cooperation from the Legislature," Moore said.

Perhaps a number of legislators don't want to have the AG's crime unit looking into some dark corners which could embarrass local law enforcement people.

He said that while he knows of no Nevada law controlling the payoff percentage on gaming devices such as slot machines, casinos that advertise a certain percentage of payoff must have machines that conform with the advertisement.

"Nevada does have stringent regulations on the complete operation of casinos," he commented. Baxter, who will manage a proposed dockside casino at Bayou Cadet, talked about security systems, personnel knowledge and experience, and state control.

Baxter said casino owners need experienced personnel running the gaming pits and slot machine sections, to protect both the players and the owners. Experienced pit bosses can prevent players from cheating the house and dealers from cheating the players, he explained.

"There are a lot of sophisticated cheating systems, and it's up to the operator to know what they are and how to stop them."

Turning back to the players for a moment, Baxter said, an honest casino will do its best to give the players a fair shake. However, "there's one thing people need to know and remember. They may win in the short term, but in the long haul the house will win. The odds are in favor of the house.

Another misconception concerning slot machines is that they have cards displaying to the players the payoff percentage. "If a player asks an operator what the payoff is, I don't see why he wouldn't tell the person. But I don't know of any casino in Nevada that has cards on the machines. The only place the payoff is printed that I know of is on the computer for the accounts."

COOKING UP A STORM

By Katie McGuire Caire

It's quick-fix meals for this cook these marvelous sunshiny days, after all that unceasing rain; and I begrudge almost every moment spent indoors, don't you? Hope the sun stays awhile!

Of course, I'm not tiptoeing through the tulips or any other sort of flower, not in my poor thunderstorm rain-battered and soggy garden, or what passes for my garden! I'm plucking off dead leaves and flowers and trying my best to counteract the effects of the lengthy deluge while tiptoeing around the more soggy, slushy spots whenever possible!

But, since I eventually had to come into the house to bake some more cookies for St. Paul's Seafood Festival continuation here in the Pass on Saturday, I decided to do a bit more! (Our Seafood Festival was all but rained out last weekend, so we'll be continuing it on the church and school grounds again this coming Saturday.) Y'all come!

While the cookies were baking, a friend called, so I then called a couple of others to come over and have a sip and a snack on the front porch, to take advantage of the breeze and the good weather. So, I quickly stirred up:

HOT ARTICHOKE DIP
1 can artichoke hearts, drained
1 cup Parmesan cheese
1 cup mayonnaise
Finely chop the artichoke hearts. Mix the mayonnaise and cheese, and add the chopped artichokes. Place in a pretty baking dish and bake at 350 degrees for half an hour. Serve with crisp crackers. That's all there is to it, but it's ever so delicious, with an elusive hint of crabmeat taste.

If I'd been even lazier, I might have just mixed up a cold artichoke dip, with the can of artichokes and cup of mayonnaise, and stirred in a package of dry Italian salad dressing, mix or whatever else my hand reached first on the kitchen shelf and served it like that; but the baked version is extra-good, and well worth that bit of extra effort!

Or, if I had been a bit less lazy and languid, and if I hadn't eaten up the marinated artichokes already, I might have mixed up another of my artichoke favorites:

ARTICHOKE SQUARES
2 (6 oz.) jars marinated artichoke hearts, undrained
1/2 cup finely chopped onion
1 clove garlic, minced
4 eggs, beaten
2 cups (8 oz.) shredded sharp Cheddar cheese
1/4 cup fine, dry breadcrumbs
2 Tbsp. minced fresh parsley
1/8 tsp. dried whole oregano
1/8 tsp. pepper
1/8 tsp. hot pepper sauce
Drain one jar of the artichoke hearts, reserving the marinade. Drain the remaining jar, discarding the marinade (or keeping it for other use). Chop the artichoke hearts, and set aside. Pour the reserved marinade into a skillet, add the onion and garlic and cook over medium heat until tender. Cool slightly, then combine the onion mixture, artichoke hearts and remaining ingredients, mixing well. Spoon into lightly greased 10x6x2-inch baking dish. Bake at 325 degrees for 35 to 40 minutes or until set. Let stand 10 minutes before serving. Cut in 1-inch squares. Serve warm or cool. (5 dozen)

(Copyright, 1991, Katharine D. M. Caire)

Slice into summer with blueberry cheesecake

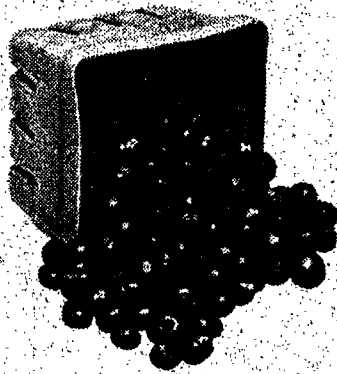

What's the color of your favorite summertime berry? If you said "blue," this recipe's for you! Blueberry cheesecake is a lusciously light, no-bake delight, presenting plump blueberries in a creamy lemon-tinged filling. The elegant almond crust adds a gourmet accompaniment.

Some consumers have questioned the safety of using uncooked egg whites in cheesecakes, chiffon pies or similar dishes. For healthy people eating individually prepared egg dishes, the risk of encountering a food safety problem is quite low.

If food-poisoning organisms are present, they are most likely to be in the egg yolk, as the egg white is not conducive to bacterial growth. The egg-yolk cooking process in this recipe should destroy any bacteria present.

Proper refrigeration of the prepared dish also makes it difficult for bacteria to multiply in great numbers. You can further minimize any risk by using only fresh, grade AA or A, clean, sound-shelled, refrigerated eggs.

Keep preparation and clean-up to a minimum by following the recipe in the order written. Egg whites must be beaten with clean, grease-free beaters. However, once that step is completed, you can use the same beaters to blend the cream cheese mixture.

Because it's so refreshing and requires little cooking, Blueberry Cheesecake makes an ideal summertime dessert. Serve to family & friends when entertaining, as a brunch treat, after dinner or for a cooling snack before bedtime.

BLUEBERRY CHEESECAKE
8 to 10 servings
1 cup ground almonds
3 tablespoons sugar
3 tablespoons butter, softened
4 eggs, separated
1/2 teaspoon cream of tartar
1/2 cup sugar, divided
1 envelope unflavored gelatin
1/4 cup water
1 package (8 oz.) cream cheese, softened
1 teaspoon grated lemon peel
1 1/4 cups fresh or frozen blueberries
Chopped almonds, optional
Lemon slices, optional

In small bowl, stir together almonds, 3 tablespoons sugar and butter until thoroughly blended. Press mixture over bottom of lightly greased 9 x 3-inch springform pan. Chill.

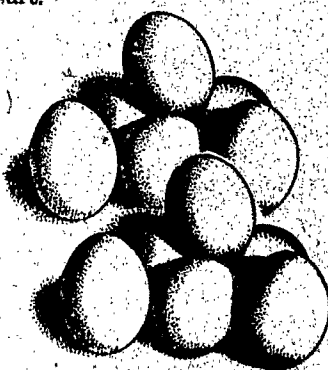

In large mixing bowl, beat egg whites with cream of tartar at high speed until foamy. Add 1/4 cup sugar, 1 tablespoon at a time, beating constantly until sugar is dissolved and whites are glossy and stand in soft peaks. Set aside.

In medium saucepan, stir together remaining 1/4 cup of the sugar and gelatin. Stir in water and egg yolks. Cook over low heat, stirring constantly, until gelatin is dissolved, about 5 minutes.

In small mixing bowl, beat cream cheese at high speed until fluffy. Beat in reserved gelatin mixture and lemon peel until well blended. Gently, but thoroughly, fold cream cheese/gelatin mixture and blueberries into reserved beaten egg whites. Pour into reserved crust. Chill until set, about 6 hours or overnight. Garnish with chopped almonds and lemon slices, if desired.

Winning egg recipes offered

Sandra Preuss of Monticello is the new 1991 Mississippi Egg Cooking Contest Winner. Preuss won the top prize of $300 for her dessert recipe called Chocolate-Cherry Blossom, which judges said was a work of art.

The 6th annual contest held Friday, May 17, at Mississippi College was sponsored by the Mississippi Egg Marketing Board and coordinated by the Market Development Division of the Mississippi Department of Agriculture.

For second prize, a $200 award, went to Mary May of Lawrence for her recipe entitled Operation "Dessert" Storm. Third prize of $100 was won by Margie Tyler of Jackson.

A total of 70 recipes were entered in the contest and five recipes were chosen to compete in the actual cook-off. The winning recipe will be sent to the National Egg Contest to vie for the $4,000 first prize.

Presently, five sites are being considered along the beach front (three between the two bridges, one between the train bridge and Our Lady of the Gulf Church, and another on the beach front at the northern edge of Cedar Point).

The group is opposed to gaming operations within the city limits because no acceptable solutions to anticipated problems have been shown, said a spokesman.

Among the organization's concerns are the impact on existing residential and commercial areas, traffic flow and congestion, parking, tour bus access, sewage disposal, possible environmental damage, potential damage to adjacent car and train bridges, public safety (fire protection, building standards, etc.) security and excess marine litter.

MSU Research Center told to move

BY JACQUI COCHRAN
Dr. Ralph Powe, Mississippi State University's vice president for research, stated in a phone interview Wednesday the he was warned of an office space problem last year by National Aeronautics and Space Administration (NASA) officials.

"I knew it was coming," Powe said. Two researchers, Dr. Robert Esher and Dwight Bradshaw, and the oceanographer assigned to the center will have to find other facilities from where they may continue their work for the university.

The three men are not presently involved in any onsite contracts at Stennis Space Center, thereby making them prime targets for removal.

Powe reported that he was first told of the reorganization plans by NASA in February.

Copies of correspondence concerning the reorganization was obtained by the Sea Coast Echo through the office of Dr. James Meredith, director for the Center for Higher Education, an office of the State of Mississippi Institutions of Higher Learning.

Among the correspondence is a letter dated February 15 to Dr. Roy Crochet, Director of the MSU Research Center, from A.J. Rogers Jr., Director of Center Operations for NASA, which directs the move of the administration office and any teaching related activities to the Center for Higher Education by March 31.

The February letter also states, "Any other activities should find lease space as appropriate."

Crochet stated, "Powe called me Friday (May 24) and said the building belongs to NASA. You have to move."

He described, "There is a lot to pack. It's not like putting your pencil in your pocket and walking out."

Crochet stated that he has been in the building for the six years he has been director and throughout this week he has been packing the accumulation of those years. "They are to move me Monday."

Crochet, his secretary and a project supporter who acts in a liaison capacity for the center are being given space in the Institute of Higher Learning facilities.

"I am doing what I can," said Meredith. "I am paying the rent for their administrative office."

He said he pays Mississippi Technological Transfer Office for the space the Institute uses.

Meredith stated that each agency has space allocated to them and with the increase of student enrollment and laboratory needs, he had to extend into the research center facility to compensate for the 20,000 square feet which NASA reclaimed.

Esher and Bradshaw have been and remain opponents to the Advanced Solid Rocket Motor (ASRM) testing projected for 1994 by NASA at the Stennis Center.

Esher firmly believes the eviction is related to his active role in that opposition.

Bradshaw, confessing to having been overwhelmed with the media attention given to the reorganization, disclaims any motive in selecting the three men as the ones who must be moved.

Powe stated that it was not necessary for the center to operate within the same facility, claiming that MSU had many other researchers working successfully from various locations.

Ladners' basketball school set for June 3-7 at PRC HS

The Ladners' 3rd Annual Gulf Coast School of Basketball will be June 3-7 at Pearl River Central High School in Carriere.

The school, open to students in grades 3-12, has a girls' camp each afternoon from 3 to 5:45 p.m. and a boys' camp from 6 to 8:45 p.m. each evening.

Camp directors are Michael

Ladner, head basketball coach at St. Stanislaus High School and a member of the 1987 National Invitation Tournament Champions, the University of Southern Mississippi Golden Eagle basketball team.

"Special guest appearances include Roland Ladner, the 'winningest active high school boys' coach in the state', currently the head coach at Pearl River Central High School; and J. Larry Ladner, former head coach at Poyune Memorial High School (1960-1971), and currently serving as basketball specialist in the Department of Coaching and Sports Administration, University of South-

The basketball school has several special features: outstanding instructional staff, complete supervision, free camp t-shirt with enrollment fee, concessions, and learning in an enthusiastic atmosphere.

Camp fee is $40. Registration for girls and boys is 2-3 p.m., June 3, at the PRC gym. Boys also may register between 5 and 6 p.m. the same day, in the same location.

Enrollment will be limited to the first 60 applicants for each session.

For more information, call Michael Ladner, 467-3107 (evenings), or Jay Ladner, 255-3393.

Seafood Festival continues Saturday

BY T. H. (DOC) TOUPS

In spite of greater than usual difficulties, St. Paul Catholic School presented their Seafood Festival on schedule, according to co-chairman Frank Wittman.

Problems included heavy rainfall during the Friday, Saturday and Sunday reserved for the annual fund-raiser and a last minute change of venue.

The festival is traditionally held in Pass Christian's War Memorial Park, according to Wittman, but city officials drastically increased their insurance and deposit requirements. Negotiations were unable to resolve the differences, and festival leaders decided to hold the event on school grounds.

Wittman said the heavy weekend rains had kept attendance down. Because of this, an additional Saturday (June 1) has been added to the fair's schedule. On that day, events will begin at 11 a.m. and last until midnight and a band will be one of the featured attractions.

"The additional Saturday will hopefully bring our revenues up to at least average levels," said Wittman.

Clockwise from upper left, a young patron of the pony rides seems to have reservations about his trip; after hearing rumors of delicious boiled crawfish, Harrison County Sheriff Joe Price decided to eat the evidence; festival volunteers man a food preparation line; Frank Wittman, festival co-chairman.

Pearlington United Methodist celebrates 178 years of service

BY TRACI BONNEY

Pearlington United Methodist Church has a lot to celebrate — 178 years of history.

The church, founded in 1813 during the establishment of six Mississippi Methodist circuits, will celebrate its anniversary and homecoming June 14-16.

The event came about as a result of some historical digging on the part of the church's minister, Dr. Bill Jenkins.

Jenkins, who also serves as minister at Clermont Harbor Methodist Church and teaches computer classes at Coast Episcopal High School, is a self-confessed "history nut" and workaholic. He has spent several months researching the past and present of Pearlington and the Methodist church which bears the community's name, and plans to publish his findings next week in a book titled Pearlington: Church and Community.

The publication makes the book available just in time for the church celebration. Jenkins said homecoming plans include 7 p.m. services June 14 and 15, with former pastors as guest speakers both days, the Mississippi district superintendent attending Friday, June 14, and special music by Jim Ballard and Dotty Porter highlighted Saturday, June 15.

An 11 a.m. service Sunday, June 16, will be followed by dinner on the grounds and a final service at 1:30 p.m., when the story of the Pearlington Methodist charge, or circuit, will be told.

Jenkins said some members of the church congregation will dress in antebellum costumes

Pearlington is the second oldest city on the Gulf Coast...in the 1870s, Pearlington was the main city between Mobile and New Orleans, having about 30 families.

during the course of the event. The research Jenkins conducted in local libraries and newspaper offices, as well as the state archives in Jackson, turned up some interesting information about Pearlington.

—The first American flag to be raised locally was raised in Pearlington in 1811, after the area had ceased being part of Spanish West Florida and had become part of the United States.

—Simon Favre was the first known white man in the Pearlington area. He was a Frenchman who came to the United States as a boy and later served as an interpreter between the French and the Indians. For his work, he was given a land grant which included most of what is now Hancock County.

—The first American flag to be raised locally was raised in Pearlington in 1811, after the area had ceased being part of Spanish West Florida and had become part of the United States.

—The Pearlington United Methodist Church was founded in 1813, and the town of Pearlington received its charter from the state legislature nine years later in 1822, a year after the legislature visited the community.

—Records indicate that in 1846, a horse race was held in Pearlington.

—Pearlington is the former location of the world's largest sawmill.

—In 1899, a black postmaster, possibly the nation's first, was appointed at Pearlington.

Jenkins, who calls himself not the author of the history but the editor, said the book also includes maps, photographs, and a list of members of Pearlington United Methodist Church and a membership roster from the 1850s to the present.

He said anyone interested in obtaining a copy of the history should call him at 538-7716 or write to: Pearlington United Methodist Church, P.O. Box 183, Pearlington, MS 38957. The hardbound book is available at a cost of $25.

Summer classes offered for young artists

This summer the Mississippi Museum of Art/Gulf Coast is offering a variety of art classes for children and young adults. All classes will meet at the art museum which is located in the Biloxi Cultural Center and Library, downtown Biloxi.

On the evenings of June 3, 5 and 7, Bob Brooks will instruct young adults aged 13 to 17 in photography. This is a course in the use of a 35mm camera and film basics.

Topics will include photo composition, the creation of photo postcards and greeting cards, and framing your best photos. The instructional fee is $40 for the six hours of class, and students need to supply their own camera and film.

Elizabeth Beasnett will teach a beginning drawing class for children ages 7 to 12. From 6 to 8 p.m. on June 24, 26 and 28 the students will learn basic drawing concepts using pencil, pen and ink and charcoal. The $40 fee includes all materials.

Again this summer, the art museum will offer its popular art camp for children ages 7 to 12. For five days, Monday through Friday, the class meets from 9 a.m. to 1 p.m. at the museum.

By working with two different art projects each of the five days the students will have a broad exposure to art in many of its forms.

All supplies are included in the $80 fee, but students provide their own sack lunch and drink. The art camp is offered two different weeks in July. Your child may register for either session July 22-25 or July 29-Aug. 2.

For class registration forms or more information contact the art museum at 374-5547.

Sizzling Summer

Library encourages children to celebrate summer with books

"Sizzling Summer Celebration" is the theme for this year's summer reading program, sponsored by the Hancock County Library System from June 4 through July 11.

The program is for children in grades 1-8. Registration began Monday, May 27, and will run through mid-June.

The program will be at the Kiln Library on Tuesdays at 1:30 p.m., the City-County Public Library on Wednesdays at 10 a.m. and at the Waveland Library on Thursdays at 10:30 a.m.

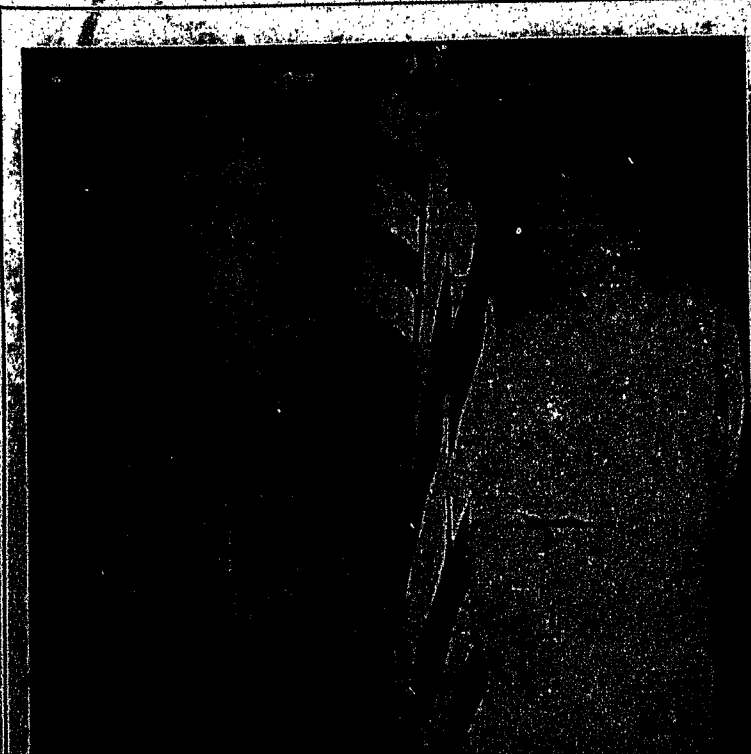

Activities scheduled include a magic show, a visit by Ronald McDonald, a visit to the local theaters and several contemporary films for children.

To register, children should come to the branch they intend to visit, have their library cards checked and complete the required forms. All participants must set a reading goal of at least 5-6 books, but a personal goal of more than that is encouraged.

Registration will continue through mid-June, but no registrations will be accepted during the scheduled activities, so registrants are urged to come early or stay after the program to register.

All activities are designed for children in grades 1-8. Children under six must be accompanied by an adult. Participants will receive certificates upon completion of meeting their reading goals.

For further information call Sandra Ladner, Kiln Library, 255-1724, Karen Peoples, Waveland Library, 467-9240, or Prima Wusnick, City-County Library, 467-5282.

Grand opening

Grand opening ceremonies were held last week for Hancock County Farm Bureau Insurance's branch office, Colonial Plaza, 412 Highway 90, Bay St. Louis. Among Farm Bureau officials attending were, from left, Louis J. Breaux, director; Theodore O. Bilbo, agency manager; Charles Scianna, Bay St. Louis councilman; Deborah Ginn Alford, agent; Vic Frankiewicz Jr., state senator; Don Waller, president of Mississippi Farm Bureau; Lisa Coward, District Three supervisor; Frank Lee, director; Wilmer Seymour, District Four supervisor; and Larry Koenenn, director. Others attending were, Aubin Harris, president of Hancock County Farm Bureau board of directors; Mrs. Eloise Lee, director; Sharon Koenenn, secretary; Timothy Hughes, agent; and Garry Riddle, agent. Bilbo said the opening of the Bay office was to better service the agency's many members. The Hancock County Farm Bureau's main office has been located in Kiln for 37 years. (Photo by Thomas H. Doe)

Agency (EPA) which uses the word "perplexing" to describe how NASA chose the Hancock County site when the project was not water dependent.

Snelling stated that the suit he intends to file will differ from SOWL's in that his client gives scientific evidence as to the danger of the testing.

"The administrative record is immense," Snelling added. "Dr. (Robert) Esher and his group have a compiled a record that gives a hell of a credibility to their standing."

Robert Wiygul, an attorney with the Sierra Club Legal Defense Fund reported "upon initial assessment, it appears NASA and the U.S. Corps of Engineers has not gone through the procedural hoop."

He added that though the group was still looking at the lawsuit for Snelling and Citizens for a Healthy Environment, "their concerns for the effects of the project appear valid."

NASA, in reply to the lawsuit filed by SOWL, issued a statement Tuesday through its public relations officer Myron Webb saying it has not received official notice of the lawsuit and that unprecedented emphasis has been placed on environmental concerns in permit restrictions and in the monitoring programs.

The statement quotes A. J. Rogers, Director for Center Operations, saying, "The State of Mississippi has issued NASA the necessary permits. The U.S. Army Corps of Engineers issued a wetlands permit in January. These environmental permits were issued following a comprehensive review by the permitting agencies, in consultation with the Environmental Protection Agency and other federal and state regulatory agencies, and after extensive public examination and comment."

The statement includes comments from Lon Miller, the Director of the ASRM Project Office at Stennis, verifying that construction of the test site has been underway since receipt of the permits in January, re-assurance that NASA is committed to protection of the environment and the public, that NASA is developing an environmental assurance program to ensure the test program is conducted in an environmentally sound manner, and that continued work on the project is anticipated.

Snelling proposed the question of whether ASRM testing is even necessary in light of the federal government's funding cuts to the Space Station project.

One of the reasons NASA gave for the development of ASRM was to increase the payload capacity of the shuttle for future construction work in space.

Fortana said as to what will be the next step, now that SOWL has filed suit, "any number of things can happen legally."

He also explained, NASA must now respond.

Attempts were made Wednesday to reach NASA's chief counsel Ed Frankle and deputy counsel Gary Tesh in Washington, D.C.

Fatality

The mother and younger brother were reported treated at St. Jude Medical Center in Kenner for minor injuries and released.

The police reports showed that no charges were filed.

The collision was said to have caused a chain reaction involving three other vehicles. No other injuries were reported.

Tree chipper ready to operate

A chipper for leaves and limbs for the City of Bay St. Louis has arrived and is now in operation, according to Mayor Edward Favre.

The chipper, purchased to assist the city in its beautification efforts and to reduce the amount of waste in landfill areas, will be scheduled for regular Saturday neighborhood routes.

Beginning June 1, Public Works Department employees will operate the chipper in city neighborhoods as follows:

District 1, first Saturday each month;
District 2, second Saturday each month;
District 3, third Saturday each month; and District 4, fourth Saturday each month.

Leaves and limbs not exceeding 4' in length and 8" in diameter will be ground. Materials must be placed adjacent to city streets.

Employees may not go on private property to remove debris. Leaves, vines and limbs should not be placed in large piles.

Norbert Redmond, Public Works director, requests that no debris be put in city ditches.

"The ground refuse will be used by the city in its citywide landscaping projects and will be available to the public at a later date for personal use. I know that we can count on the public's cooperation to make this project successful," said Favre.

Residents earn real estate brokers, salesman licenses

Real estate license examinations were held April 8 in Jackson for persons desiring to enter the field of real estate sales, rentals, appraisals and related real estate activities.

Fifteen individuals applied for the broker's license and 58 applied for the salesperson's license.

Commissioner Harry J. Joachim, 5th Congressional District, announced the following who have been issued licenses:

Brokers: Jeff Bray of Diamondhead.
Sales: Lori Darkow, Jane Viguerie Lamb, Nancy Rutherford, Amry Ann Shippey and Edward Vera, all of Bay St. Louis; Burt A. Davis and "C. W. Mike" Michael, both of Pass Christian; and Dorothy Sjoström of Waveland.

Appraisers certification postponed

Real Estate Commissioner Harry J. Joachim has been notified by the appraisal subcommittee of the Federal Financial Institutions Examination Council that the deadline for the certification of appraisers has been extended from July 1 to Dec. 31, 1991.

Joachim stated the six month extension is to facilitate an orderly nationwide implementation of the requirement for certification and licensing of appraisers in all federally related transaction no later than Dec. 31, 1991.

Paula Ladner named Youth of Year

Hancock High School senior Paula Ladner was named 1991 Youth of the Year at the May 16 Exchange Club of Hancock County awards banquet. Camille Tate, the club's education committee chairperson, announced the selection. The student is selected each year from eight Youths of the Month who all demonstrate the best of what America expects of its young people, according to club national guidelines. Ladner, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Vernon G. Ladner of Hancock County, has been active in school and community activities. She has participated in athletics and maintained high academic standards. Ladner ended a speech to the Exchange Club titled "What My Generation Can Do For America"

ca" by saying, "...my generation can make a difference because we are living in a time when sustaining our world for the next generation is vital and it is up to my generation to respect humanity and become a giver, a part of the solution." Ladner will be entered in state and national Youth of the Year Award competition. The national recipient receives, among other recognition, a $5,000 scholarship.

Stennis Space Center sponsors Astro Camp

NASA's John C. Stennis Space Center is accepting applications for Astro Camp, a five-day educational camp for area youngsters.

Astro Camp provides a unique learning experience that encourages an interest in mathematics and science by demonstrating how these subjects are applied to aeronautics and space travel.

Activities will include lectures and demonstrations presented by aerospace education specialists. In addition to participating in classroom and training sessions, campers will tour the Space Shuttle Main Engine Test Complex.

Other activities include model rocket classes and a field trip to NASA's Michoud Assembly Facility or the Louisiana Nature Science Center. Individual sessions are planned for two age groups: June 24-29 for 12- to 14-year-olds; and July 22-26 for nine- to 11-year-olds. Camp sessions will be held daily from 8:30 a.m. to 4 p.m. in the Teacher Resource Center at Stennis Space Center.

Fee for Astro Camp is $180 per child. Campers will receive a flight suit or jacket, camp T-shirt, hat, calculator, navigation maps, transportation for the field trip, daily snack, lunch and camp journal as part of their enrollment fee.

Enrollment is limited to the first 25 applicants in each age group. Those first applicants will be notified of their acceptance by mail.

Pre-registration is required. To receive a registration form or for additional information about Astro Camp, call Stennis Space Center's Teacher Resource Center at (601) 688-3338.

Teacher of Month

Kathy Chapman, a fourth grade teacher at Bay Middle School for 23 years, was honored by the Bay St. Louis Rotary Club as Teacher of the Month for May. Steve Benvenuti presents her with a plaque. Chapman has a B.S. from the University of Southern Mississippi and a M.S. from William Carey College. She was named an Outstanding Teacher of America and is on the Pastoral Council of Our Lady of the Gulf Church, where she has been a CYO director for 15 years. She coordinates the OLG Saltillo Mission program.

Ohman, Altier named OLA Star student, teacher

Catherine Barnes Ohman has been selected as a STAR (Student-Teacher Achievement Recognition) Student at Our Lady Academy, according to the Mississippi Economic Council, sponsor of the program.

STAR students are selected on the basis of academic excellence. American College Test scores and scholastic averages are considered in designation of the school's STAR Student, explained Bob Pittman of Jackson, MEC president.

Each STAR Student is asked to designate a STAR Teacher, the classroom teacher who has made the greatest contribution to the student's scholastic achievement. John James Altier was designated STAR Teacher.

JOHN ALTIER

Team, the JETS (Junior Engineering Technical Society) Team and the Drama Club.

This fall she plans to continue her studies at the Merchant Taylor's School for Girls in Crosby, England.

Altier, a graduate of Our Lady of Snows College in Belleville, Ill., has 16 years teaching experience. His graduate degree is from Loyola University of Chicago. He has taught Latin and religion at Our Lady Academy for seven years.

Dance camp set for July 15-18

The Universal Dance Association's (UDA) 1991 Dance Camp for seventh through 12th-graders will be Monday-Thursday, July 15-18, on the University of Southern Mississippi campus.

UDA camps are held annually throughout the nation. Top dancers and dance teams at each camp will be eligible to participate in the 1992 National Dance Team Championship in Orlando, Fla.

Registration applications and an initial registration fee of $20 are due by May 30.

For more information, call Linda Norman at USM's College of International and Continuing Education, 266-4190, or write Southern Station Box 5136, Hattiesburg, Miss. 39406-5136.

CATHERINE OHMAN

All 300-plus STAR students and their STAR teachers received certificates from the Council, and the top 21 STAR students, named All-STAR Scholars, were presented scholarship awards.

Funds for the scholarships were provided by the Phil Hardin Foundation of Meridian and Sanderson Farms, Inc. of Laurel.

Ohman, daughter of John Ohman of Bay St. Louis and Mrs. Mary Ann Ryan of Kenner, La., is editor-in-chief of the yearbook, president of the Crescent Athletic Club, president of the National Honor Society, an Alpha Honor Roll student, assistant editor of the literary magazine, coordinator of Campus Ministry and captain of the varsity cheerleading squad.

She is a member of POE (Protect Our Environment) Club, SADD, the Math and Science

997 Public Notices

PUBLIC NOTICE
Mississippi Environmental Quality Permit Board
P. O. Box 10388
Jackson, MS 39208-0385
Telephone No. (601) 851-5171
June 1, 1991

The Waveland Regional Wastewater Management District, P. O. Drawer 110, 401 Gulfside Street, Waveland, MS 39576-0110, has applied to the Mississippi Environmental Quality Permit Board for the issuance of an NPDES Permit to discharge treated domestic wastewater from its wastewater treatment facility into Edwards Bayou. The applicant's operation is the collection and treatment of domestic wastewater. One discharge is described in the application.

The environmental impact of this project has been evaluated and the staff of the Permit Board believes that, with proper environmental constraints and limitations on the applicant, the project will operate within all State and Federal environmental laws and standards. Therefore, the staff of the Board has preliminarily decided, based on available information, to recommend to the Board that a permit be issued containing numerous environmental regulatory constraints specifically stated in the draft permit. However, before proceeding further with the staff evaluation, public comments are being solicited. The staff recommendation to the Board, as well as the Board decision, will be made only after a thorough consideration of all public comments.

Persons wishing to comment upon or object to the proposed determination are invited to submit comments in writing to Mr. Glenn Odom, Chairman, Mississippi Environmental Quality Permit Board, P. O. Box 10388, Jackson, MS 39208-0385, no later than June 13, 1991. All comments received by that date will be considered in the formulation of final determinations regarding the application. A public hearing will be held if the Permit Board finds a significant degree of public interest in the proposed permit.

The Permit Board is limited in the scope of its analysis of environmental impact. Any comments relative to zoning or economic and social impacts are within the jurisdiction of local zoning and planning authorities and should be addressed to them.

Additional details about the application and the proposed determination, a sketch showing the location of the discharge, and a copy of the draft permit are available by writing to Mr. Glenn Odom at the Permit Board's address and telephone number shown above. Also, this and other information is available for review and copying during normal business hours at the Southport Center Building located at 2380 Highway 90 West, Jackson, MS.

Please bring the foregoing to the attention of persons whom you know will be interested. 5-30-91
